Casa Colina Hospital and Centers for Healthcare Opens New Medical Surgical Wing

New Facilities Expand Continuum of Care and Services in the Region

Casa Colina Hospital and Centers for Healthcare, a leading rehabilitation hospital and specialized healthcare service provider, has opened its new state-of-the-art Medical Surgical Wing, a 38,220-square-foot, highly technical addition that will accommodate an additional 2,300 patients annually and employ an additional 160 staff members at Casa Colina, an already-established Center of Excellence in medical and rehabilitation services.

"For more than 75 years, Casa Colina has been highly regarded for its rehabilitation services, and we are proud of its recent ranking by Modern Healthcare as the 13th largest rehabilitation provider in the United States," said Felice L. Loverso, PhD., president and CEO of Casa Colina Hospital and Centers for Healthcare.

"With the new Medical Surgical Wing addition, Casa Colina will further meet its goals of providing the highest level of patient-centered medical and surgical care available anywhere in the region."

With foresight in early 2015, Casa Colina announced its organization name change from Casa Colina Centers for Rehabilitation to Casa Colina Hospital and Centers for Healthcare in order to better reflect its breadth of specialized medical and surgical services now offered with the addition of the Medical Surgical Wing.

Casa Colina Hospital's new Medical Surgical Wing is located adjacent to the existing Acute Rehabilitation Wing on its 20-acre Pomona campus. Its offerings are the culmination of specialists and surgeons from top hospitals throughout the region and country, creating a preferred surgical facility for physicians who specialize in a wide range of procedures, from orthopedic and neurosurgery to gastroenterology, urology, and more. Features include three state-of-the-art surgical suites, a six-bed Intensive Care Unit (ICU), 25 private medical/surgical beds with patient lift systems and private bathrooms, a procedure room, and much more.

Casa Colina's three new spacious surgical suites are the highlight of the new addition, featuring the da Vinci® minimally invasive surgical system and Stryker MAKO robotic-arm-assisted surgery for orthopedics/total joint replacements. Ceiling-mounted booms hold surgical equipment, allowing staff to easily move and adjust devices during procedures, increasing accessibility and decreasing surgical time. Designed with six wall-mounted screens and two portable screens ranging from 42 inches to 52 inches, the surgical suites also allow the operating room team to display vital signs, radiological images, lab values, pertinent patient data, and images projected through endoscopic cameras. Ceiling-mounted and in-light cameras also allow the surgeons to use telemedicine to share procedures with other surgeons in real-time, allowing them to seek expert assistance from worldwide colleagues during complex procedures, if needed.

At the center of Casa Colina's goals is the desire to provide patients with a comfortable and healing environment. Each of the 25 private patient rooms offers advanced telemetry, ensuring that physicians, nurses and staff can closely monitor patients, as well as a two-way communication between patients and nursing stations via closed-circuit 42-inch television monitors, which also offer DirecTV® for patient entertainment. Patient lift systems are installed in each room, allowing staff to safely assist in transferring patients to bathroom facilities if needed — with two of these private rooms designated for bariatric patients up to 550 pounds. With Wi-Fi® access in each room, patients are welcome to use their personal smartphones, tablets or computers to stay in touch with friends, loved ones and colleagues. A beautiful family day room, sun deck and garden courtyard for comfortable patient and family visits will also be offered.

Physicians can provide immediate specialized care with instant bedside access to each patient's digital medical records, all securely archived in Casa Colina's Electronic Medical Record (EMR) system. The Medical Surgical Wing offers a blood bank, an expanded hospital laboratory, adjacent diagnostic imaging services and access to a complete continuum of other medical and rehabilitation services, if appropriate for the patient's recovery.

Casa Colina's new facilities align with its vision to lead and continuously redefine a patient-centered approach for those requiring highly specialized, medically driven levels of care.
